

AC Student Wins Second Runner-Up Prize in Region 9 Project Management Case Competition 2025

27 MAY 2025

The Department of Accountancy (AC) proudly announces that Mr. Charles Liang, one of our distinguished students, alongside his teammates from The University of Hong Kong and Hong Kong Community College at The Hong Kong Polytechnic University, received the accolade in the Region 9 Project Management Case Competition 2025 for the second runner-up prize. Charles describes this achievement as a valuable and enriching learning experience.

Organized by the Project Management Institute Hong Kong Chapter (PMIHK), the competition aims to empower emerging project managers and promoting industry best practices among students and the wider community. Participants addressed real-world challenges across diverse sectors, including FinTech, Financial, Consultancy Services, eCommerce, and more, providing them with an invaluable platform to apply their critical analysis, problem-solving skills, and project management expertise.

Reflecting on his experience, Charles shared, "This competition underscored the importance of teamwork and collaborative problem-solving. The skills I gained through the AC Department's guidance were instrumental in navigating the challenges faced." He also expressed gratitude for being part of such a dynamic learning environment provided by CityUHK that fosters innovative solutions in project management.

The Department extends its heartfelt congratulations to Charles and his teammates for their outstanding achievement. They have showcased their business acumen and mastery of project management methodologies and principles. Their excellent performance in the competition shows their passion for driving innovation within the field.
