

AC - CB Double Major Exercise with AC

The College of Business offers students greater flexibility in planning their studies through a College Double Major. Students can enjoy the advantages of both a wide scope of learning and in-depth study to give them a greater range of potential career opportunities.

Some experts say that the half-life of a learned skill is just five years. This means that the skill you learn loses half of its value within five years. Therefore, a double major—incorporating cutting-edge foundational technologies—makes for a good insurance policy, enabling your skill set to stay relevant for just a bit longer.

As an integral part of the College of Business, AC actively promotes the CB Double Major to eligible students. During the CB Double Major Information Week, two information sessions were conducted by our department on 26 February and 27 February. Mr. Sunny Wong, our Major leader, introduced the features and advantages of our department in detail. He also made some suggestions for study plans for potential candidates to give them a clearer understanding of future courses with a second major in Accountancy.

This year, 30 AC students applied for declaring a second major. 12 of them chose Economics and Finance (EF) as their second major and the remaining 18 students selected Information Systems. We also received 6 applications from EF department to select AC as a second major.

The results of the first year CB Double Major selection will be announced soon. We sincerely hope that the successful candidates will treasure this precious opportunity and prepare to become future business leaders.
