

My Fruitful Journey with the Department of Accountancy

LEE Rui Feng, Isaac, BBA in Accountancy, 2019 Cohort

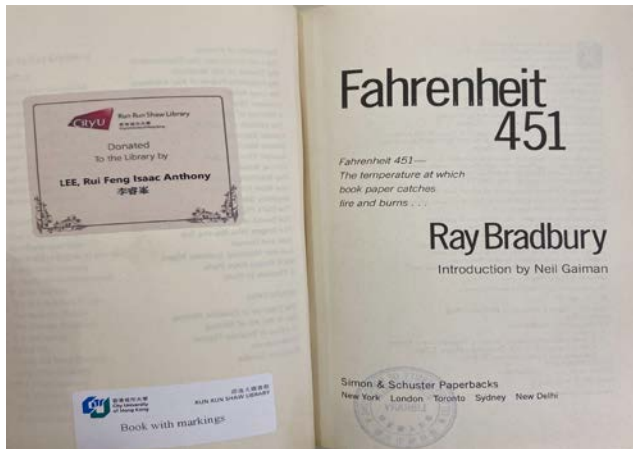

I am LEE Rui Feng from the Department of Accountancy (AC). I was selected as a semifinalist for the EY Young Tax Professional of the Year 2020 and was awarded the City University Community Service Award, Talent Development Scholarship, HKSI Scholarship, 全港學生國情知識大賽(Hong Kong Students National Knowledge Contest) and 魯迅青少年文學獎(香港) (The Luxun Youth Literature Award, Hong Kong).

The AC has contributed greatly to my personal development, and not only in academics. As the retired senior teaching fellow David Yip said, “What is the meaning of excellence? You should acquire expertise in something that everyone knows already, as well as in something that everyone does not know.” This quote reminds me that anyone can become excellent if they work hard. I therefore worked hard on my accounting and literature skills. I am also grateful to Dr. Wen CHEN, Dr. Hin Tse MA, Dr. Qin TAN, Mrs. Mimi LAI, Mr. Sunny WONG and Miss Tracy YEUNG. Without their help, I would not have been able to accomplish the achievements above.

I have also been an audit intern for ShineWing (HK) CPA Limited, an anti-money-laundering Intern for OCBC Wing Hang Bank and a banking intern for Bank of Shanghai. All of my employers recognized me as an excellent intern because of the knowledge and skills that I learned in the AC. The AC courses are very practical. For example, Mr. Sunny Wong was already an experienced accountant when he joined the AC. He not only taught us accounting treatment in depth but also explained its history and underlying rationale. Hence, I was able to apply my accounting skills effectively in a complex business environment because I understood the logic behind the accounting treatments.

Caring for others is a core value of the AC. To share this value with others, I decided to contribute part of my scholarship by donating books to City University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong Baptist University, Hong Kong Shue Yan University and Caritas Institute of Higher Education. I believe that education and knowledge are the best investments in the world, and it was my pleasure to contribute to education in Hong Kong.

Last but not least, my team, which featured students from the College of Business and School of Law, was selected as a finalist in the HKICS Corporate Governance Paper Competition 2021. We competed for the championship in October 2021.
