

A New Academic Staff Member Joined the AC Family in November 2021

Hi everyone. My name is Oleg Kiriukhin. I am very excited to join the Department of Accountancy (AC) at City University of Hong Kong as an Assistant Professor. I received my Ph.D. in Accounting and my MBA from the University of Chicago Booth School of Business and my M.Sc. in Physics from Lomonosov Moscow State University. I am also a Chartered Alternative Investment Analyst (CAIA).

Prior to joining CityU, I worked in financial and economic consulting in New York City. My consulting experience was concentrated in corporate finance (mergers and acquisitions, corporate governance, insider trading, venture capital), financial institutions (residential mortgage-backed securities, consumer finance, credit rating), asset pricing (securities, market efficiency, price impact of information, foreign exchange trading, derivatives), accounting (valuation, corporate disclosure, accounting restatements, tax issues) and data analytics (big data, statistical methodologies).

My primary research interests include accounting information quality and its implications, the capital market effects of accounting, litigation issues and accounting measurement.

I will be teaching graduate-level Cost and Management Accounting in the Spring semester. In my teaching, I will try to make the learning process interesting and to build connections to practical applications in the real business world by providing applied examples and explaining the views of practitioners on specific issues. I am a proponent of positive communication, and I have deep respect for students with different backgrounds and levels of knowledge.

In my spare time, I enjoy reading, photography and exercising.
